

Ninja

Written by Serenity

Tuesday, 08 January 2008 18:11 -

The silent assassins. Since the dawn of war, the joufu have roamed the world in secrecy, keeping their mystic arts and fighting styles hidden away from the prying eyes of the world. In this seclusion they perfected their knowledge in the art of stealth. Through this they understood that the unprepared opponent is indeed the easiest to defeat. They spent countless hours studying the anatomy of every race in existence, so as to use the knowledge of a body's weaknesses to their full advantage. Some joufu have even spent years meditating, seeking contact with the spirits of old, so that they might learn the mystic arts once employed by their ancestors. Those who have made this spiritual connection are said to bring with them the fury of a dragon while in combat. When full mastery of these skills is reached, and a complete understanding of the knowledge of the ancients is obtained, only then is the true joufu complete. A joufu of this power is not one to be trifled with. Of course, a joufu of this power is more likely to strike before the thought of attack crosses an opponent's mind.