

Blue Drake

Written by Serenity

Tuesday, 08 January 2008 01:07 - Last Updated Tuesday, 08 January 2008 19:13

The blue drake is of the same lineage as the red drake, but does not follow the same destructive path as its racial counterpart.

Blue drakes at times have been known to even assist other races in fighting their wars, healing their wounded, or protecting them from whatever harm comes their way.

While blue drakes have the same racial abilities as the red drake, the blue drake has been known to choose its breath as its main focus of energy. That being so, blue drake breathe frost with no more than a thought, although they lack more consistent use of their tail and wings as weapons.

Blue drakes are about the size of a human and have the form of a dragon.