

Frost Giant

Written by Serenity

Monday, 07 January 2008 01:47 - Last Updated Tuesday, 08 January 2008 20:23

Living in the tundras of the Nodekian realm, Frost Giants emerged many generations ago, and were feared by all. What Frost Giants lack in strength they compensate for in willpower. Frost Giants are not of the foolish nature that their brother race, the Cloud Giant, is. Although not as physically strong as the Giants of the Clouds, Frost Giants have other faucilities which make them equally or more powerful in combat. Being more willed then other Giants, Frost Giants have mastered the power of frost breath, which allows them at times to release frost upon their enemies inflicting high amounts of damage. As well as frost based attacks, Frost Giants can inflict massive amounts of physical damage in combat, as well as resist physical, and the obvious, frost based attacks. Frost Giants are particularly vulnerable to fire, and fear the Red Drake more than any other race. Allied with Blue Drakes, Frost Giants have been known to show exceptional understanding in the art of magic, as well as physical combat. There is no profession which is beyond the grasp of the Frost Giant. Frost Giants can merge themselves into Titans of Ice, later in life, and eventually claim title as: Arctic Colossus.